Falvent becomes newest member of Eurovent Middle East

Dubai, 08 December 2025. Falvent Middle East, a leading Saudi Arabian provider of ventilation solutions for commercial and industrial applications based in Riyadh, is the most recent addition to the Eurovent Middle East membership base.

Established in 2013, Falvent Middle East began its journey as a trading company specialising in ventilation equipment, serving a wide range of industrial and commercial clients across the region. In 2022, the company made a strategic decision to transition into full-scale local manufacturing, enabling the design and production of high-performance axial fans and advanced ventilation solutions.

Highlighting the motivation to join Eurovent Middle East, Mohamed Sultan, Operations Manager at Falvent Middle East, mentioned, “We were motivated to join Eurovent Middle East to strengthen our engagement with the region’s ventilation industry, exchange technical expertise, and align our products with internationally recognised standards and certification schemes. We believe that being part of this network will support our growth, enhance our credibility, and enable us to contribute to the advancement of high-quality, energy-efficient solutions in the Middle East market.

Markus Lattner, Managing Director of Eurovent Middle East, added: “With Falvent, we welcome a true Saudi-made manufacturer among our group of manufacturers, distributors and service providers who join their efforts under Eurovent Middle East to contribute towards the region’s sustainability targets. The role of ventilation in energy efficiency and indoor air quality is still overlooked. With every member supporting our work, we will be able to raise more awareness on standards, best practices, and the value of high-performance products in the market.”
